

Treasury Department,
BUREAU OF THE MINT,

Washington, D. C., December 21, 1887

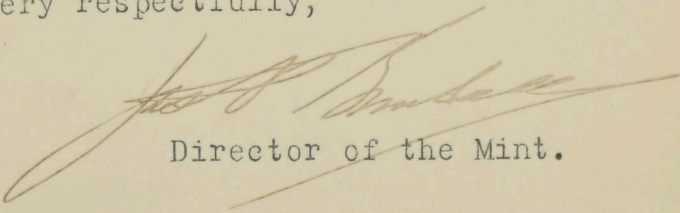

Sir:

Referring to my last annual report, page 148, I have to request that, along with statements of condemned ingots and re-jected blanks, you will in future also forward a statement of condemned fillets or bands, after annealing.

I may take the present occasion also to ask your serious consideration of the subject-matter of what has been said in the same report under the heading of "Technical operations of mints." You are requested to direct the attention of your operative of-ficers to the matters there referred to, with a view not only to future exhibits of the same character, but to the improvement of the several technical operations under their charge.

A test of the efficiency of your rolls is especially desired, to be exhibited in tabular form, by whatever experiments may seem best adapted to the purpose.

Very respectfully,

Director of the Mint.

Hon. Daniel M. Fox,

Superintendent U.S. Mint,

Philadelphia.

1695

Treas'y Dept
Washington D.C.
Dec. 21. 1887

James P. Kimball
Director.

Referring to last annual report, page 148, requests in future to forward statement of condemned fillets or bands
after annealing, & calls attention in same report of "Technical Operations of Mint."
Requests the attention of operative officers to matters there referred to.

[Abstract:] Referring to last annual report, page 148, requests in future to forward statement of condemned fillets...

Treasury Department,
Bureau of the Mint,
Washington, D.C.,
December 21, 1887

Sir:

Referring to my last annual report, page 148, I have to request that, along with statements of condemned ingots and rejected blanks, you will in future also forward a statement of condemned fillets or bands, after annealing.

I may take the present occasion also to ask your serious consideration of the subject-matter of what has been said in the same report under the heading of "Technical operations of mints." You are requested to direct the attention of your operative officers to the matters there referred to, with a view not only to future exhibits of the same character, but to the improvement of the several technical operations under their charge.

A test of the efficiency of your rolls is especially desired, to be exhibited in tabular form, by whatever experiments may seem best adapted to the purpose.

Very respectfully,
James P. Kimball
Director of the Mint.

Hon. Daniel M. Fox,
Superintendent U.S. Mint,
Philadelphia.